The Americans rowed right away from their rivals, winning with apparently little effort in seven minutes one and two-fifths seconds.

The Leander-New College race was nip and tuck at the start, but the superior form of the Leanders soon told and they won the heat by one and three-quarters lengths. Their time over the course was seven minutes and nine seconds. The record for the course is six minutes fifty-one seconds and was made by New College dangerous in 1897 and the Leanders in 1891.

The morning dawned warm and sunny in contrast with the successive rainstorms that had prevailed since Sunday. There was a slight northeast breeze which favored neither combatant. Pennsylvania drew the "bucks" side, which the winner of each of the three heats for the Thames Challenge Cup had yesterday,

The first heat for the Grand Challenge Cup between the Leander and New College Clubs was rowed at 12:35, and the second heat between the London Rowing Club and Pennsylvania at 12:49. The weights of the respective crews in the second heat were as follows:

Many of them wore the red and blue colors of Pennsylvania. There was little betting. Leander was the favorite for the final heat.

At 12:20 the Pennsylvania eight, which had remained stationary in midstream above the winning post while two opening minor events were decided, paddled slowly down the course to the starting point amid continuous handelapping and cries of encouragement. Their easy precision and smoothness of style evoked admiring remarks from American and English spectators alike.

After winning their heat the Pennsylwhen they had cooled off took a carriage from the boathouse of the regatta committee, where they keep their shell, to the Five Horseshoes at the top of Remenham Hill. They will continue the strictest training throughout the regatta period,

The Americans immeasurably outclassed the London eight. The Londoners' stroke was 40 a minute and the Pennsylvania's at the start. London led by a few feet to a point half-way up to Temple Island, where Pennsylvania took them in hand and, pulling most evenly and powerfully, forged ahead as they emerged above the island. The Americans increased their lead to three-quarters of a length at the Rectory. Here London made their only struggle. For about 200 yards they succeeded in preventing the Americans

At Powley, three minutes and twentyfour seconds from the start, the Ameri- pirc. cans had increased their lead to two and three-fourths lengths. Brooklyn.....

Chicago PHILADELPHIA, July 3.-The Athletics opened up a short series at home today by downing Washington in a wellplayed game by the score of 9 to 7. The recent poor work by Connie Mack's ban had the effect of pulling down the attend ance, and they were welcomed by crowd of only 1,352. Before the gam Manager Mack issued a severe lecture t his badly demoralized team, after which he notified Outfielder Hayden and Pitch ers Platt and Milligan of their releas Mack's new outfielder, McIntyre, of New Haven, was put into the game and showed up well. Bernhard and Mercer were the opposin pitchers and the Senators opened up o the local twirler as if they were going t sead him back to the bench. After th first three innings, he settled down an pitched in good form. He was given ad mirable support by the team, with the ex ception of Cross, who seemed to have a off day. The usually reliable Win Mercer was put in to beat the home team, but they managed to bunch their hits when runs were needed and this, with the wildness of the dark-haired Senator, proved to be his undoing. In the fifth irning, after Lajole and Seybold had singled, Mercer gave McIntyre his base on balls and sent Lajole home when he hit Powers. Dolan's long fly scored Seybold, McIntyre tallied on Fultz's double, and the latter, by fast enthusiasm will be of the sizzling brand, | base-running, scored from second with Powers ahead of him on a wild pitch.

Dolan's two-bagger and three singles added three in the fourth inning. Davis' third single, and Cross' double ended the scoring in the sixth.

Washington began with a rush in the first when Farrell doubled, took third on Clarke's fly to deep centre, and scored mings, the old New Yorker and ex-Ori- on Dungan's fly to left. After Quinn and Coughlin had singled in the second Mer-cer scored them with a well-placed hit the next smallest crowd of the year was 1,400 and the next smallest 2,100, so all the visiting to right. In the third singles by Clarke, teams have left the city richer in purse. Dungan, and Foster, Cross' errors both lin's triple tallied four runs, and that was the extent of scoring as far as the Senatorial aggregation was concerned. Quinn played a nice game at second, figuring in two double plays, and Cling-man acepted ten chances at short, many of them difficult, without the semblance of an error. tyre played a star game in left, and als work was the feature of the fielding on both sides. Lajoie and Davis appeared to have Mercer's curves sized up

THE SCARCITY OF MILK.

Anxiety Felt by Local Denlers Unless the Extreme Hent End . Considerable anxiety is felt by local dairymen over the scarcity of milk which prevails in the city at the present time. of milk consumed is being brought into the city, and the milk dealers say that unless a change in the weather occurs within a week or ten days, conditions will ecome much worse, and a total famine ire unable to supply their customers, and some of the smaller conserns have been forced by the scarcity of the milk almost to suspend business.

Milk dealers in Maryland and Virginia for a number of days past have been sending from 100 to 500 gallons of milk a day less than the amount commonly shipped. At the same time the call for milk, on account of the extremely hot weather, and the extra demand occasioned by the Fourth of July, when much ice cream is made, has almost doubled. Milk dealers say that there is less milk coming into Washington now than for any other time luring the past twenty-five years.

Firms dealing with New York State airymen have been notified that contracts made early in the summer cannot be filled, owing to the milk famine in New Seventh race Amelia Strathmore, Lee Bruno, Ida Ledford.

Up to the present time no increase has been made in the price of milk, and dealers generally will not make any advance. Should present conditions continue for some time longer, however, the supply of milk would become practically exhausted, and what little could be had would probably fetch an exobbitant figure.

Among the local dealers who report a partial famine in milk already and who believe that a change in the weather alone can prevent conditions from becoming worse are E. Wagner, 401 East Capitol Street; C. Thompson, 221 B Street southwest; J. W. Gregg, and R. J. Benson, all large dealers. The large shippers from Montgomery and Frederick counties, Md., and from Virginia say they have experienced trouble with their stock. The hot weather and the flies have caused the ows to refuse to eat, and the actual quantity of milk produced has become very low. Last winter being open, and followed by a spell of weather such as the present one, has made fodder poor. On many farms in the vicinity of the city the wheat crop is ready to be har-vested. The farmers have been harvesting at night by moonlight, to save their horses. When the wheat is cut the tender clover which until now has been shaded by the standing grain, will become exposed to the sun, and unless rains occur there appears to be no way whereby to save the clover from destruction. It is upon this that the cows must feed during the surgery luring the summer.

Many dealers have offered double the price usually paid for milk in order to be able to fulfill their contracts. They have not been able to obtain any extra milk even at this price. ALMAS TEMPLE OUTING.

LABORERS NEEDED IN HAWAII. Landowners Desire to Import a Ship-

load of Filipinos. A question as to the admission of Fillinos into Hawaii as laborers has been aised by William Haywood, who repreents the business and commercial interests of Hawaii in Washington. Therehave been many complaints from the Hawaiian Islands because of the lack of labor on the sugar plantations, resulting principally from the restriction of Chiese immigration.

Mr. Haywood was asked by some of is clients in the islands to get permisdon from the Government for the landng of a shipload of Filipinos. Mr. Haywood has made an argument on this uestion before the Secretary of War nd the Secretary of the Treasury, but the officials are undecided as to whether the granting of his request would constitute a violation of the alien contract

A number of Porto Ricans have been imported into Hawaii, but objection was made to this class of labor because it takes a long time for them to become acimated and fit for labor in the fields.

Citizens are wondering what the outcome of the contest will be, as there seems to be small probability of any one of the members going over to the other side before the first regular meeting of council Tuesday, July 2. There was some talk yesterday of a conference for last night to devise means for bringing about an election and effecting the organization of the board. There was no such meeting, and from what can be learned today it appears that there are no definite plans in view for a
